When the New AEFs Go Out to Fight
The Future Industrial South

Soon another million or more American men will be joining the colors, and the vanguard of half-dozen AEFs of 1942 will be on their way. They go out to fight in foreign fields, yet they go to fight to defend their own country at home. We are still more fortunate, in the very face of these foreign campaigns, than the people of most of the other countries in the war. We still have a chance to keep actual warfare largely away from our own homes. Sporadic attacks may be made on continental United States, but unless things go worse than we have a right to expect, there is no reason to expect any major fighting in the United States itself.

Axis Sign New Agreement on Military Moves

Germans Claim

Capture of Feodosiya, British

Mop Up in Libya

By the Associated Press
Hints and actual circumstantial evidence that Adolf Hitler is plotting a new move which have appeared from time to time since his Russian offensive was thrown into reverse were given official Axis stamp Monday although what he has in mind is still obscure.
The German radio declared that a military convention signed Sunday by Germany, Italy and Japan provided for "proper and appropriate distribution of military forces in preparation for operations of great striking power which will be of outstanding significance."
Speculation now as before naturally turns to the Mediterranean zone, newly strengthened by the fact that Hitler's chief Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and Premier Mussolini's chief of naval staff Admiral Arturo Riccardi talked high strategy last week at Baravia.

Say Feodosiya Retaken
BERLIN—(Official Broadcast Recorded by AP)—The German high command announced that Nazi and Rumanian troops had recaptured the port of Feodosiya on the southeast coast of the Crimean peninsula, stepping stone to the Caucasus.
At the same time the high command reported that Russian forces had launched heavy attacks along the entire Donets river front.
The fall of Feodosiya, a communiqué said, resulted in the capture of more than 4,600 Russians and large amounts of equipment.
In the central and northern sectors of the eastern front the Russians continued their attacks but suffered heavy losses, the high command said.

2 Italian Generals Captured
CAIRO—(AP)—More than 14,000 German troops crowded British prisoners camps Monday as the result of the imperial desert army's mop-up of the Halfaya Pass-Salamah pockets near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.
Among the British prisoners were two Italian generals bringing the British bag to 79.
Their supply line now uninterrupted the British turned attention to the main body of General Erwin Rommel's troops just east of El Agheila on the Gulf of Sirte.
Bad weather has restricted operations for nearly a week during which the Axis forces have dug in and possibly been reinforced.

Venezuela consists of 20 states, 2 territories, and a federal district with a total estimated population of 3,000,000.
There have been recent numerous convictions in Italy for hoarding or "bootlegging" food, the Department of Commerce reports.

President Asks 28 Billions for Navy Expansion

Appropriation to Take Care Naval Defense Activities for 1942-43

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress Monday for $28,500,767,495 in supplemental appropriations and contract authorization for the 1942 and 1943 fiscal year for the war and navy departments and two other defense activities.

He estimated the supplemental appropriation needed for the navy department and naval services for the 1942 fiscal year at $8,768,985,500. The President also asked $7,193,861,521 net additional for the Navy program in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

For the army he asked an emergency appropriation totaling $22,525,872,474 for the 1942 fiscal year.
For the inter-American highway he requested $7,000,000 and for the Federal Bureau of Investigation he asked $5,950,000.

Rural Housing Meet Tuesday

All Interested Persons Are Urged to Attend

Farm families of Hempstead county interested in USDA Rural Housing Program are urged by Oliver L. Adams, county agent, to attend a county wide meeting at the courthouse at 10 a. m. Tuesday, January 20. J. H. Shaw in charge of the program in Southwest Arkansas will explain all details and take family applications at the meeting. The local authority headlined by Pat Duffie and Judge Fred Luck have perfected details and funds made available for constructing ten or more houses in Hempstead county. All interested families, white or colored, should attend this meeting Tuesday morning.

To Start First Aid Classes Here

Appeal Made for Auxiliary Firemen, Policemen

The civilian defense council appealed Monday for auxiliary policemen and firemen to take part in classes of first aid instruction as well as instruction in controlling fires and preserving order.

These classes are to be held at the fire station here three nights weekly under the direction of James Embree, fire chief. No definite date has been set for starting the classes as an effort is being made to get as many to join as possible.

Civilians are urged to register at the defense office at the city hall. This office will be open nightly, in charge of the Business Women's association.

In these classes all phases of fire control such as controlling incendiary bombs and chemical warfare. Competent men who have had special training will instruct these classes.

Window Smashed $1.80 Cash Stolen

The police department reported Monday that a window had been smashed at the Scott store sometime early Sunday that approximately $1.80 in nickels had been stolen from a cash register.

Axis Subs Sink Another Tanker Off U. S. Coast

Standard Oil Ship Torpedoed Off North Carolina Coast

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An Axis submarine operating off the North Carolina coast Sunday torpedoed and sank the Standard Oil Tanker Allen Jackson to bring to three tankers the toll of undersea boats off the U. S. Atlantic coast since last Wednesday.

The landing of survivors of a torpedoed Panamanian freighter at the east coast Canadian port Sunday indicated that at least a fourth vessel had been sunk in apparently widespread Axis submarine forays.

The Norfolk, Va., operating naval base said 13 survivors of the crew of 35 of the tanker were landed by a rescue vessel which also brought four bodies. All licensed officers were injured or lost.

Survivors said the submarine gave no warning before losing its torpedoes and expressed the belief that two torpedoes hit the tanker.

Completes Naval Training Course

Harry Smith, Hope Youth, Assigned to Active Duty

Harry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pauline Smith, 223 S. Washington St., Hope, Arkansas, will complete a 16-week intensive training course at the Naval Training School Detroit on Saturday, January 17, it was announced Monday by Captain R. T. Brodhead, Officer-in-Charge.

Smith will be assigned to active duty as aviation machinist mate with the fleet or at an air base.

During the sixteen weeks of training he was quartered at the unique Detroit Naval Armory which is constructed on nautical lines throughout even to a full size replica of a destroyer complete with guns, helm and operating instruments.

This school in vocational training is maintained by the Navy Department in Detroit for enlisted men, to qualify them for service and advancement in the aviation branch of the Navy, the field these men have chosen.

He won this opportunity by a competitive examination taken during his first six weeks at a Naval Training Station. His aptitude in the mechanical field and his desire to advance himself were factors determining his appointment to this school.

Smith's recently completed course has fitted him with a useful trade in an expanding industry and will be of great value to him when he returns to civilian life.

When questioned as to his reaction to the service he stated: "The Navy is OK. I am glad to be in."

Chinese Assert U. S. Marines Put to Work

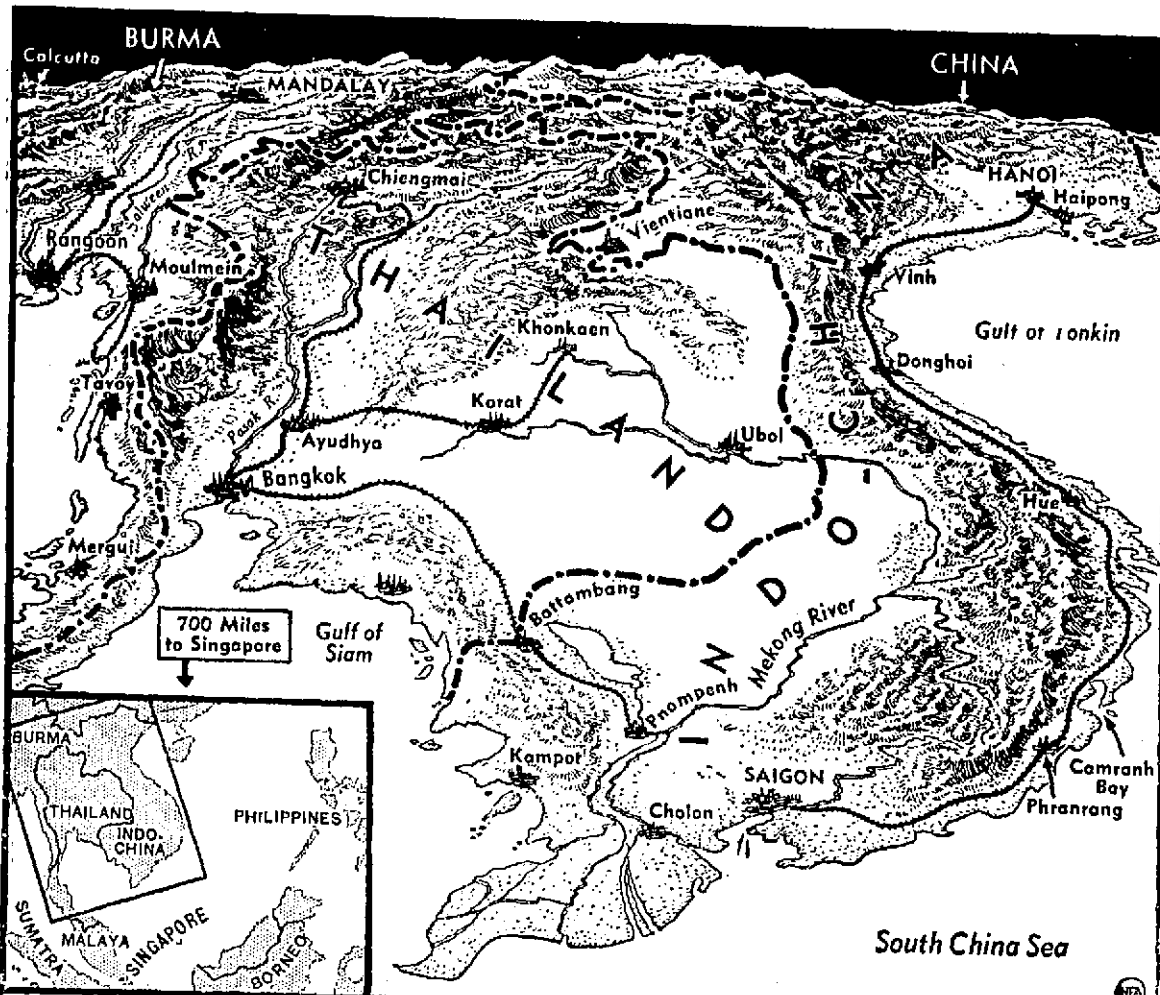

CHUNGKING—(AP)—A Chinese report said Monday that U. S. Marines captured by the Japanese at Peiping had been put to hard labor in an internment camp.

Most American and British residents of Peiping were reported still at large but with their movements restricted.

Two Tires, Wheels Stolen From Trailer

Two wheels and tires were stolen from a trailer near the CCC camp sometime early Sunday morning, it was reported to local police by Howard Nichols, owner.

Rubber Plant Looms for State

Adkins Reports on Return From Washington Trip

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Governor Homer M. Adkins returning from Washington and Miami Monday expressed renewed optimism over the state's industrial outlook as the result of war caused expansions.

Adkins said he was particularly hopeful that a synthetic rubber plant would be established in South Arkansas near gas fields.

He disclosed that Arkansas representatives were discussing with the four major rubber companies of such the possibility of establishing of such a plant.

The governor said the sour gas field would have half a million pounds of chemical material daily available for synthetic rubber manufacture.

County School Teachers Meet

Henderson President Is Principal Speaker

School teachers of Hempstead county met in the courtroom of the courthouse here Saturday morning and discussed the ways they could aid in national defense.

E. E. Austin, county examiner, opened the meeting with a scripture reading and prayer.

Oliver Adams, county agent, talked on the necessity for growing food crops and of the proper selection of seed. The assistant home demonstration agent explained the nation-wide "Food for Victory" campaign and the county health nurse, Miss Hughes, stressed the necessity for being physically fit as a part of the defense program.

A member of the state health department also spoke on sanitation. E. S. Leonard, Soil Conservation director, in an address emphasized man's responsibility for taking care of the soil.

Royce Weisenberger, attorney, urged that love of community be taught along with individual vocations and to develop a true spirit of patriotism.

Dr. Matt Ellis, president of Henderson State Teachers college spoke on service.

"If we no longer hear the call to higher ideals and service, we also lose the vision. What can we do to be of most service?"

"Give service with time and money. There must be better organized efforts behind a better organized program."

"Sometimes it takes a war to make us appreciate the heritage of freedom. Citizenship means responsibility, and democracy is not guaranteed."

"Given time the people will be brought to a fresh appreciation and understanding of what we mean by civilian defense," he advised.

SPG Workers Aid Red Cross

5232 Employees to Receive $181,473 for Week's Work

Employees of the Southwestern Proving Ground again displayed their loyalty and patriotism by contributing freely to the Red Cross War Relief Fund. The combined offices of Area Engineer, Architect-Engineer, and W. E. Callahan Construction Company contributed $1,039.76. A portion of the Architect-Engineer's contribution came from the treasury balance of the A. & E. Club, a social club composed of the personnel of the Architect-Engineers, which was disbanded when the United States entered the war.

In the fight against the dread infantile paralysis, workers on the project did their bit by quickly willing with coins. By their generous contributions, the workers on the project displayed their determination to back the President in his "Eight Infantile Paralysis" campaign.

The first of the permanent buildings, on the reservation, to be occupied was the administration building. Employees of the various sections of the Ordnance Department, with the exception of the Proof, Property, and Procurement sections, moved this week into the new building. The new Administration building is perhaps the most imposing of the various permanent structures making up the Southwestern Proving Ground. Its rooms are well-lighted, well-ventilated, and provide the workers with conveniences pertinent to excellent working conditions.

Employees of the W. E. Callahan Construction Company, numbering about 5,232, will receive $181,473.65 when pay checks are issued for work during the past week. These figures represent a decrease in the number employed on the project. As the proving ground nears completion, workers are being released when their services are no longer needed. The Personnel Department of the Area Engineer's Office has contacted other defense plants in the surrounding territory and has been able to secure transfers to these particular locations for many workers released from the Southwestern Proving Ground.

The semi-monthly payrolls for the Area-Engineers and the Architect-Engineers were released during the week. The employees of the Area-Engineers will receive checks totaling $185,589.71 while the checks of the Architect-Engineers' employees will amount to approximately $24,393.16.

Fierce Hand to Hand Fighting Believed Near

American Forces Undergo Several Japanese Patrol Assaults

BULLETIN
By the Associated Press
The Australian Imperial forces turned back waves of Japanese attackers Monday in the defense of Singapore.

The communiqué said "This morning (Monday) the enemy attacked again and again and were defeated by our troops. The Australians are holding their ground everywhere."

By the Associated Press
With the Japanese still advancing in Malaya's steaming jungle land which the British had looked upon as a sort of natural Maginot line for Singapore, has taken its place as another outworn defense concept and the battle for Singapore Monday became purely a test of fighting men and their weapons.

Some of the fiercest hand to hand combat in the history of the war was in store, if not already in progress along the narrowing line of defense in Johore state, well within 100 miles of the pivotal naval base which the British call their Gibraltar of the Orient.

The British acknowledged a 15 mile retreat in Johore's central sector and further Japanese infiltration along the western coast—admitting that the offensive was between 90 and 95 miles of Singapore—while the Japanese claimed a thrust down that same coast to within 25 miles of the goal.

Patrols Active
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Japanese patrols have been active against American and Philippine forces in the Philippines during the last 24 hours but results have been indecisive, the War Department announced Monday.

Ground operations have been of a desultory nature since American troops smashed a heavy Japanese attack, the communiqué said.

Enemy air activities were confined to frequent reconnaissance flights.

General Douglas MacArthur reported that Philippines in the occupied areas had been deprived of their means of transportation.

He said farmers had been evacuated from their farms and formed into labor groups and the invaders had seized harvested crops and food stores.

Borneo Port Raided
BATAVIA—(AP)—Japanese air raids on the Borneo port of Balikpapan and on the island of Sabah last night were reported by the Netherlands East Indies high command. Sabang is an island off the northern tip of Sumatra.

The high command also announced that nine persons were killed and 41 injured in Sunday's raids on an air-drome in the middle of Sumatra island.

Hopewell Community to Meet Thursday

OtisBreed and Mrs. Jesse Yarberry, neighborhood Agriculture Planning Committee members and Food-for-Victory minutemen, announce that all families of the Hopewell neighborhood are requested to meet at the Recreation Building of the Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station Thursday evening January 22 at 8 p. m.

Food-for-Victory committee will be launched to reach every family of the neighborhood. Everybody wants a special job to help win the war. A definite assignment will be given each farm family at the Hopewell meeting Thursday night.

Circuit Court Put Off Until Wednesday

Circuit court convened at the Hempstead county courthouse Monday morning with Judge Dexter Bush presiding. The court adjourned until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, with no cases being set.

Because of the illness of District Attorney Dick Huie, no criminal cases will be heard during this session of court.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Guatemala Sides With U. S. in Axis Conflict

WHEN the United States declared war on the Axis partners, loyal sister republics of the Pan American Union, such as Guatemala, wasted no time in severing diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy, and Japan.
The air mail stamp above, issued recently by Guatemala, farthest Central American nation from Panama, pictures the Captains-General Palace at Antigua. When all of South America, and part of North America, was under Spanish rule, Spain developed an elaborate administrative system for the government of her vast colonial empire. The territory under her control was divided into vice-royalties, captaincies-general, presidencias, audiencias, and smaller administrative units.
Central America constituted the captaincy-general of Guatemala, with its capital at Antigua. Antigua, or the "old" city, was virtually destroyed in 1773, and the capital subsequently transferred to Guatemala City.

Miss Lenora Routon and Lt. Cross Exchange Marriage Vows Saturday

Marked with quiet dignity, the wedding of Miss Frances Lenora Routon, daughter of Mrs. William Ralph Routon and the late Mr. Routon, and James Calvin Cross, lieutenant in the United States army, of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hubert Cross of Shreveport, was solemnized Saturday afternoon, January 17, at 5 o'clock in the chapel of the Mt. Vernon Methodist church in Washington, by Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor, performing the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

Floor baskets filled with beautiful white gladioli were interspersed with silver floor candelabra containing glowing cathedral tapers to outline the approach to the chancel. Graceful arrangements of gladioli and fern adorned the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, William Ralph Routon, Jr.,

Filipinos Here Want Action

20,000 in U. S.
Seek Immediate Service

By MILTON BRONNER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Washington—Twenty thousand Filipinos, not citizens, but residing in the United States, would like to fight for Uncle Sam, either in their own native islands or anywhere else—if the American government would only let them.

Their idea is to form one or two divisions, offered in part by Americans and in part by Filipinos, and to get active service after six months of intensive training. And they want particularly to fight Japs, and not be turned into labor battalions or anything of that sort.

Filipinos in the United States are in an anomalous position, unless they were born here. In that case, they are American citizens.

Alien Filipinos Are "American Nationals"

But Filipinos born in the Philippines, which are still a dependency of the United States, are not American citizens, but are given the puzzling title of "American nationals." Whatever that may mean, the American census and the Department of Justice consider them as aliens.

Under the Aliens Registration Act they have to register, just as does a German, Italian or Jap.

The Department of Justice says 83,674 Filipinos were registered in the continental United States and possessions like Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands and Alaska. The Census Bureau has not yet revealed its figures. But it is estimated that 50,000 Filipinos live in Hawaii and over 32,000 in the United States.

California, Oregon and Washington have the biggest Filipino population. Those who are not students or business representatives, are mainly agricultural workers. In Washington they are mainly taxi drivers and house servants. Many used to be in the United States navy, serving in the officers' mess.

Filipinos in this country have never shown any great longing to go back home to live, although now they are ready to go back there to fight. As an aftermath of the depression, many Filipinos in America were very poor. In July, 1935, a House act provided means for Filipinos to return to the Philippines at the American government's expense. This provision ended December 31, 1940. The authors of the bill estimated that between 20,000 and 30,000 would apply for repatriation. Actually only 2180 accepted free transportation to Manila.

Filipinos Want to Fight
Right after the treacherous attacks by the Japs on American forces in Hawaii, followed by invasion of the Philippines, J. M. Elizalde, Resident Commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, received letters from Filipinos all over the United States expressing a desire to join up with the American forces. So widespread and insistent was this movement that Elizalde took it up with the War Department. A few weeks ago Secretary of War Stimson wrote back:

"Many Filipinos who are citizens of the United States are now serving in our army. Unfortunately, under our present law, a person who is not a citizen of the United States, may not be commissioned or enlisted in the army. Consequently, a change in the law will be required if Filipinos, who are not citizens, are to be permitted service in the armed services of the United States. The War Department has this matter under study and it is hoped that a solution will be found in the near future."

Incidentally, Stimson's office is issuing certificates of Filipino nationality for protection of his fellow countrymen, who might be mistaken for Japs. Many of them also wear a red button with a white band across it which is printed in black the word "Filipino."

The stout fighting the Filipinos are doing in their homeland is largely due to the fact that the first act passed by the Filipino National Assembly in 1935 was a plan for national defense.

It required compulsory service from all men between the ages of 20 and 50. Every year those reaching the age of 20 must register. The plan was for six months training for between 20,000 and 40,000 each half year. The first registration was in April, 1936, and the second group in July, 1937. This was repeated yearly.

Upon completion of training, the men were taken into the reserves. Had peace prevailed, it was foreseen that by 1950, there would have been 1,000,000 trained fighting men. How many Filipino trained soldiers are fighting alongside American troops in the Philippines today is not revealed, but it is probably considerably more than 100,000.

La Powell Scores With Drum and Stick

HOLLYWOOD—When the monkey men from Japan began to move on the Philippines, a Hollywood producer and his staff retired in confusion and embarrassment to their conference rooms and began to reform their lines. The lines were those incantations written for a musical called "I'll Take Manhattan."

Worst of it was that most of the picture already had been filmed. There were Navy and Philippine backgrounds; there were puns by Red Skelton and Bert Lahr involving the locale and the islands; and there was a tremendous whoop-te-do finale in which Eleanor Powell sang the title song and then, in her dance, tapped out a code warning to sailors in the audience that axis agents were about to blow up a battleship in the harbor.

TAMBAY GOLD

By SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

THE STORY: Mom Hammer sets up "freedom" lunch wagon at Tam-bay, a busy plantation, forms tourist camp, partnership with his aristocratic, impoverished owner, Jane Ann Judson, last of the Maures and sored on the world. Mom tells Juddy she has a daughter, Charvante, Juddy tells Mom of a lonely childhood, over characters: Loren Oliver, a writer, U. prof digging for Indian relics, Swooby, a Shreveport refugee, Mom's pet skunk, lawyer Maurice Sorens and football star Angel Todd, born in love with Juddy. Sheriff Hollister Mowry, distant "left-handed" cousin of the Maures, smuggles a gun and "I'm thinking 'Doc' Oliver is after gold, returns looking for Negro suspected of murder. Mom fears trouble at Hanging Tree of Tambay.

"ROPE JUSTICE"
CHAPTER XIII
THE quiet woke me up with a jump. The gale had gone dead. I began to shiver, with a sound in my ears that I hadn't heard since the old days in the west. There's something about the hoofbeats of a lone horse, going full gallop across country in the dead of night.

After a while I dozed off, and this time I came up slower out of sleep. A line of motor cars was going past. Their lights made a pattern on the lawn as they eased around the curve. Then there was one single, high, crazy voice, shrieking short and quick, as unhuman as a mechanical whistle, yet enough to turn you sick with the terror and despair in it.

My door opened. Juddy came in. "They've got him."

She was quicker than I. I was still fixing my sweater when she came back.

"Somebody's on the veranda," she said.

She put her head out the window and called. Doc's voice answered her.

"It's Loren Oliver. Let me in." I ran down, with Juddy close after me. The two Gullah girls were huddled under the stairs, crying. Doc came in and barred the door after him.

"What are you going to do?" Juddy asked him, quick and fierce.

"I tried to telephone the troops," he said. "The wires are down."

She tried to push past him. "Let me out," she said. "I'm going to the tree."

"Don't be a fool, Juddy," I said. I doubt if she even heard me. "Are you going to let me pass?" she said to Doc.

"No," he said. "It's no place for a woman."

stuff, but I can promise that whatever has been lost in dramatic value is well repaid by Miss Powell's amazing dance routine.

Tommy Dorsey's orchestra is playing. Drummer Buddy Rich stands at the edge of the platform clattering his sticks and tossing them to Miss Powell, who's dancing on a table top. She leaps down, catching a drum in midair and whirling it around in her dance so that Rich can hit a few licks as it goes by. He then bounces a stick against the floor. She makes the catch his drum with the stick and bounces it back to him. As the chorus finishes, both go to their knees with the drum between them. She catches the two whirling sticks tossed from the sidelines, John Rich in a clatter of hot licks, and at the last instant they shake hands.

Dry Diver
That isn't all. The music resumes then, and Miss Powell really goes to town on a classed solo jitterbug routine. I haven't mentioned the swimming pool on the set, but the camera now draws back and reveals that there is one between the audience and the dance floor. Miss Powell dances around to the left end of it and then twice up the springboard and dives.

This is a climatic bit of exuberance, because she's fully dressed. But she doesn't get wet. A husky adagio dancer, standing pretty high in what ought to be deep water, catches her and tosses her on to a second adagio gent on a raft.

Without any doubt this is the dog-gonest dance routine I've ever witnessed, and if it doesn't have the jitter-jivers jumping on their seats and whooping in the aisles it will be only because nobody will believe the stunts actually were performed.

They were, though, and it was all of one morning and until 3 p.m. before the drum and stick business was filmed.

Hempstead Students Make Honor Roll

Two out of the 19 from Hempstead county made the semester honor roll at A. and M. college, Magnolia, Ark. Ernestine Collins, Hope freshman, made a 5.13 average. Mary Maxie Holt, Nashville sophomore, made a 5.43 average. Collins is taking a teacher training course and Holt is enrolled in the Home Ec. department. Holt made a six point average last year at semester. The total honor roll was 57, which was one less than the nine weeks honor roll.

Congress Full of Argument

They Will Squabble on Anything Except the War

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—There has been a great deal of talk about the death of partisan politics. I will have to plead guilty to having, on occasion, put in my two cents worth on that score—but not any longer.

I have been a-visitng up on the Hill and I'm here to report that the old political hatchet is only buried on one subject—the winning of the war. Since December 7, I haven't been able to find a congressman (or woman) who doesn't want to win the war. But after that, agreement ends—and the basis of partisan politics is disagreement.

In the first place, this is election year, and the seats of 34 Senators and all the members of the House of course, are at stake. That means campaigns—and campaigns mean "issues." When one begins to look for these, he finds there are plenty of them.

Some of these issues, a lot of them, are coming up in Congress before election time comes around. But there will be others and many of those in the immediate offing will be continuing.

For example, there is the prosecution of the war itself. No one questions the solidarity of England, but when things go wrong with British progress in the war, there are quite a few M. P.'s who are happy to stake their political necks on questioning Prime Minister Churchill. That's probably only a sample of what can happen here. The "outs" aren't going to forget how many political noggin's fell AFTER England entered the war.

As Republican National chairman, Rep. Joseph W. Martin put it: "This is no time for abuse or criticism. It's a time for pointing out. We, like every one else, are 100 per cent for winning this war but, like they do in England, we will reserve the right to comment when it can honestly be done. The party of the opposition is of greatest importance."

As for specific issues which are likely to develop into lusty political battles: (1) Price control legislation, particularly as regards farm prices, wages, and administration of the act. The big guns already are firing on this one and it's pretty much a battle royal. The farm bloc, the laborites, the anti-Leon Henderson-ites, the anti-labor gro up, the anti-inflationists, and the middle-of-the-roads make it a glorious melee.

(2) The drastic reduction in non-defense spending with many Congressmen battling to save their favorite agencies.

(3) Legislation banning strikes in war industries and probably along with it a tighter control of management profits and operations. This may pop to the front again any minute—any minute that labor or management shows signs of getting out of line.

(4) Congressional committee investigations to unearth any possibly graft or favoritism in government contracts and to determine where the arms program is falling down, if it is.

(5) The gigantic tax program, probably no one questions the vast amount of money we have to raise, but don't think for a minute there isn't going to be hot argument about the methods of raising it.

(6) The fight to save small industries from complete annihilation and legislation to remedy or relieve labor and industrial dislocations.

I could mention a lot of minor issues that may loom large before the year is out, such as the complaints against the progress of civilian defense, and daylight saving, which was one of the big political squabbles of World War I and is certain to bring some political doars from the farm belt.

But that should be enough to convince that the second session of the 77th congress isn't going to be intirely a chorus of yesses.

Schools, War— 7-Point Plan

War-time Magna Carta of Education Is 15 Resolutions

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — Drastic streamlining of education to meet war needs and avoid the pitfalls which gave education such a setback in World War I is under way.

The wartime Magna Carta of higher education will be the 15 resolutions recently adopted by the conference of 1,000 college presidents in Baltimore. The group which will administer it and work with individual colleges and school systems will be the Office of Education wartime commission here in Washington.

Appointed by John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, at the request of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, the commission already is in high gear.

Some of the things in immediate prospect are:

1. Reduction of the college course to three and possibly two and a half years, in order to give youth its degree and a completed education before it is called into the army or into civilian defense and wartime industries. This speedup has been going on in West Point and Annapolis for more than a year. As in the case of those institutions, six day weeks, full summer terms, and an acceleration in all courses by stripping them of frills and nonessentials are expected to do the trick.

2. A vast expansion of military training, with full college credit for such work. There has been no hint that colleges and universities again will be converted into wartime military institutions as they were by the Student Army Training Corps in the last war. However, if it develops later that such a drastic move is necessary, the nucleus of the S. A. T. C. will be ready to again turn every fraternity house into a barracks and college campuses into armed camps.

3. A far greater emphasis on physical education with a view to building every youth into the tough physical specimen that can stand the rigors of war in the field and at home. The report that a million young men have been deferred in the draft because

Plans are underway for a defense dance to be sponsored by the Girl Reserve and the Varsity club of the Prescott high school. The dance will be held at the Legion Hut, Wednesday, at 8 p. m.

A ten cent defense stamp will be the admission for couples, while stags are required to bring a 25c stamp.

Federal Auto Stamp
Hervey Bemis, postmaster announced that auto stamp sales went on sale over the weekend. The stamps are $2.00 and are good until June 30, when motorists must purchase a five dollar stamp. The stamp must be displayed on the windows of cars and failure to display prominently is punishable by a heavy fine.

D. A. R. Meeting
The Benjamin Clup Chapter of the D. A. R. met Saturday at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Charles Thomas with of physical deficiencies has been considered alarming. An analysis of these deficiencies already is being made and physical education courses will be revamped throughout to remedy them in the youngsters coming up.

1. An expansion of the Civilian Pilot Training Program and a greater emphasis of turning out both pilots and aviation mechanics. This year, 700 colleges are taking advantage of the Civilian Aeronautics Administration's C.P.T.P. and turning out pilots with good basic training at the rate of 30,000 a year. No goal has been set but it is known that the C.A.A. and the military forces would like to see this doubled and tripled.

5. Plans to provide financial aid to colleges threatened with bankruptcy and closing because of tuition enrollment. And measures to combat the growing shortage of teachers. The draft and war industries already have taken a big slice out of enrollment and teaching staffs in high schools and colleges.

6. There will, of course, be a greater concentration on vocational education to meet the needs of a nation at war. This program is already far advanced. It is likely now that the government will be asked to finance many courses, such as engineering, physics and chemistry, and that the colleges will become designated training centers for such Army and Navy personnel as the engineering corps, the chemical warfare service and the quartermaster corps.

7. The possible establishment of nursery schools on a nationwide scale to care for the small children of mothers who are in industry or war work.

Add to all this the widespread civilian mobilization service which is gearing education from kindergarten to doctor's thesis to the conversion from a peacetime culture to wartime economy, thought and service. The three R's are now spelling it WAR.

Mrs. Wells Hamby as co-hostess. The meeting opened with a talk on "National Defense" by Mrs. Charles Thompson. Mrs. Allen Gee presented a talk on D. A. R. Approved schools. A talk on "Junior American Citizens" was given by Mrs. Alvin Cole, regent. It was voted to have a silver tea in February, instead of the annual George Washington luncheon. The money derived from the tea will be donated to patriotic purposes. Mrs. Randolph Hamby, chairman of the advancement of American music, displayed clever books, made by the children of the Junior high. Simple refreshments were then served, with the money which is usually used for refreshments going to the Red Cross.

British Sub in Daring Attack

Out of Torpedoes,
Submarine Makes
Surface Attack

By PAUL MANNING
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
A NORTH SEA SUBMARINE BASE. —Straight ahead, out across the body of water which stretches from this rain-swept base to the coastline opposite, is a German life line.

It sweeps from the iron ore mines of Norway, in Norway, down to the wharf sheds which line the southernmost coast of the crescent-shaped Bay of Biscay.

To cut that life-line is the job of the squat, low-lying submarines, being fueled and re-fitted at the dockside of this estuary. It is not easy.

A submarine patrol can be long, nerve-shattering time. Rain and fog often blanket this North Sea, which waves that make rudder and propeller control impossible, if you've the temerity to surface after a German ship in such weather.

Shy, apologetic 26-year-old Lt. Dennis of His Majesty's Navy, attached to this submarine flotilla, explained this as we clambered down the slippery, oil-covered rungs of a steel ladder into a torpedo room on inspection tour.

In eighteen months this submarine had been through plenty. The Mediterranean first, the North Sea later, re-fitting now. They were tearing the engines apart, painting the heavy metal doors of the twin forward tubes, getting ready for the next trip out.

Gunning for Nazi Freighters
The last line-cutting trip out, Dennis said, had been worthwhile. It made up for the inactivity of two previous trips.

The Germans send their freighters down the coast in groups and for long weeks nothing happens, but this time they intercepted part of a convoy.

Along the surface by night, and below by day, they had proceeded to the area which was to be their patrol zone, unless something forced them back to base.

En route once, they had received from "shore-operations" what Dennis terms "a tinkle by radio." Except for that cryptic lone message, they were on their own, as completely cut off as the crew of a giant four-engined bomber, fighting a slow passage through bad skies to Berlin and back.

In steady, monotonous fashion they had moved closer to the zone and the German shore. The fog and the rain obscured their vision most days, but it also permitted them to surface more frequently and let the fresh, cold, North Sea air flow down through the open hatchway.

One nightfall they were on the surface, one mile from the German-occupied coast. The stars were out and the sea had abated and from this close distance they had no trouble visualizing the steel-helmeted artilleryman who stood restlessly by the side of guns and searchlights which guarded that strip of high cliffland.

The German convoy broke slowly from out of a mantle of light fog, Dennis said, holding the Captain and himself transfixed. Then the spell ended. A sharp order, and their sub was sliding below the surface, headed for the enemy vessels.

Swiftly they drew closer to shore. The convoy was hugging the high-walled shore line which broke almost straight to a great depth down into the water below. At four hundred yards from land, the Captain barked "Port torpedo—fire!"

They could hear the terrific explosion which followed a short moment later.

"That freighter must have gone 100 feet in the air," Dennis said. "All munitions, probably, for the destruction was so complete. Whole lorries were tossed to an incredible height, and for that one moment as I looked through the periscope I felt sick."

Sinking a Ship With Gun Fire
They had twisted their course by then. A German cruiser was moving in and out, trying to locate them, but it's hard to see a periscope at night.

They sank one more ship and there were no torpedoes. But they had shells, so they submerged. Dennis said many times they had rehearsed unlimbering their gun, for just such a situation, but never had it worked so smoothly.

runged ladder, the gun crew and shell handlers stood. The Captain looked around once, gave the signal to blow all tanks and then with a rush the submarine burst to the surface. The crew was up on deck fast, tearing away the muzzle and breech covers and in one motion shells were being passed upward.

Before the enemy's guns could get their range, ten fatal rounds had been poured into the side of the nearest German ship, the men had scrambled back down the hatch, and then they were fighting for depth.

Through the periscope they saw a German ship racing toward them. Dennis said that as the water mounted slowly around the conning tower he thought they would never get below.

"I watched the depth gauge. We could hear the propellers racing overhead and then came the depth charges. The boat just gave a shudder and kept going. But it was a strain for some time, always waiting for that next one."

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Cremulson relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Cremulson with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.
